Cross borders by making them soft and fuzzy

Creativity is about crossing borders. Making those borders soft and fuzzy through the physical environment, communication and expression.

This allows people to affect their environment, shaping it and leaving their traces. Make a poem if you dare in public space with light and sound, let the others come together with their movable urban furniture, blown up air chairs, send sms's party or just enjoy being together on the street.

Because communications between people, the expressions of feelings and thoughts is a way of softening the borders between private and public spaces.

We invite people to create “the Urban Village” within the city, where they can make a difference. By projecting funny messages on the house walls or by playing with the interactive sculptures. The children can transform the city streets into their private playground and bring the adults together.

Ownership of public space by shaping it and interacting with it creates a respect and a relevance to the surroundings. This will be an urban physical structure, where the sense of living in domain exist.

This is not Utopia to day. By using projectors, loudspeakers, interactive sensors and sculptures. It's possible to create an infrastructure for a new kind of street creativity.

A street creativity which is in every day life and which is breaking down borders between private and public space.
A street creativity controlled by the people in the community.
This is the creation of what we call Cinescape.

If the doors of perception were cleansed every thing would appear to man as it is. Infinite.

For man has closed himself up till he sees all things thro narrow chinks of his cavern

William Blake The Marriage of Heaven and Hell

Like the infinite possibilities in the fuse of the virtual, the physical, the imagination, the outer reality.

Like the augmented reality of new media urban space
